CURRENT LAW AND BILL ANALYSIS:

PART I. ALARM SYSTEMS LICENSING ACT MODERNIZATION

The Alarm Systems Licensing Act (ASLA), Chapter 74D of the General Statutes, establishes the Alarm Systems Licensing Board (Board) and requires any person, firm, association, and corporation, or any department or division of those entities, to obtain a license prior to engaging in the alarm systems business in North Carolina. The seven-member Board, under the Department of Public Safety (DPS), enforces the ASLA and administers the licensing, education, and training requirements for those engaged in the alarm systems business. An alarm system business is defined as selling or attempting to sell an alarm system device through personal solicitation at a residence or business or installing, servicing, monitoring, or responding to electrical or mechanical alarm signal devices, burglar alarms, monitored access control, or cameras used to detect unlawful entry or illegal activity. Certain alarm system activities are exempt from the licensing requirements including the sale of alarm systems not involving personal solicitation at residential or business locations, fire alarm system installation, monitoring activity located in another state not involving personal solicitation, and the provision of certain alarm system services provided to a State agency or local government.
